ASSEMBLY AT CHITA OPENS FRIDAY; NOTE HITS AT JAPS

Charge Made In Protest Nipponese Have Been Interfering

OBSERVE HOLIDAY

Cabinet At Vladivostok Moved By Reports Of Atrocities

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, Jan. 31.—The Chita Assembly will be opened on Friday.

(United Press)

Vladivostok, Jan. 28.—The Chita Foreign Ministry has telegraphed via Vladivostok a long note addressed to the Foreign Office in Tokio.

The note notes all the declarations made by the Japanese commandant that the Japanese military force would not interefere with internal Russian affairs and that they would not break the Russian Sovereignty. It states that the recent Japanese military actions contradict these declarations.

All the violations of Russian rights are mentioned in this note, including a strong protest against the Japanese capture of the Russian fisheries in North Saghalin and Decastri.

OBSERVE HOLIDAY

Vladivostok, Jan. 31.—The Assembly of the Maritime Province proclaimed today a holiday in commemoration of the overthrow of the Romanoffs.

Processions, composed of the working classes paraded the streets, but there was not much enthusiasm, and there was a marked absence of the Red element as compared with last year. The national flag was everywhere displayed in honor of Kappell's troops, for whom a benefit week has been inaugurated.

VLADIVOSTOK CABINET HEARS OF ATROCITIES

(Dalta and Rosta News Agencies)

Vladivostok, Jan. 27.—At the last Vladivostok Cabinet Meeting Mr. Antonov, the Premier, suggested to re-elect the members of the Council of Directors of the Maritime Departments. The suggestion was unanimously approved. Mr. Antonov was entrusted to suggest candidates from the Socialistic Bloc and the Peasant Group.

Then reports were made by members of the Peasant Faction regarding brutalities of Kappelists and Semenoffists at the Zharikovo village. These troops entered the village on January 3, made thorough searches, committed violence, flogged, tortured and beat the villagers with butt-ends.

Semenoff's officers stripped their victims, made cuts on their skin, put salt, glass and powder into the wounds and then "dressed" the wounds. One unfortunate father was ordered to spit in his son's face. Owing to his refusal he was killed on the spot. One officer ordered the peasants to kiss his boots. Those who complied were whipped twice and those who refused to comply with the order were flogged unmercifully. Zharikovo was compared to Daouria, a station in the Trans-Baikalia where hundreds of people had been killed by Semenoff's bandits.

RESOLUTION PASSED

These reports, especially one made by a peasant who had made good his escape from the hands of the bandits, moved all those present. A resolution was duly passed to lodge an interpellation with the local government, insisting on an immediate investigation into the actrocities.

Vladivostok, Jan. 31.—Generals Oi and Tachibana held a reception this afternoon, which was attended by all the foreign and Russian military and civil representatives, the heads of the press, commercial and literary organisations. The affair was a success, and goodfellowship was everywhere in evidence.

THAW OPENS UP HAI-HO RIVER UP TO TIENTSIN

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Jan. 31.—The sudden warming of the weather has resulted in an extraordinarily early opening of the Hai-ho at Tientsin. A Japanese vessel opened the season by pushing its way up the river to the Tientsin Bund on Friday, last.

The regular service of the Darien Steamship Co. is to begin on February 3, and it is anticipated that the British and China Merchants lines from Shanghai will be coming up the river again with a few days.

BODY OF SAILOR LONG MISSING IS IDENTIFIED

Remains Of U. S. Seaman Harry Robertson Will Go Home

WAS BURIED IN WOOSUNG

Representative Of Navy Man's Mother Pushes Successful Investigation

Word went from Shanghai yesterday to end the suspense of a widowed mother in Riverside, California, who nearly five months ago was notified that her son had been drowned here and that his body had not been recovered.

On September 11 of last year, while he was engaged in painting the U. S. gunboat Villalobos, at anchor in the Whangpoo, Seaman Harry G. Robertson fell into the river and was drowned. Search was made for the body but without avail. Notification of the fact was given Mrs. Elizabeth Robertson through the Navy Department. A few weeks later Mr. K. H. Wood left San Francisco for Shanghai and before sailing he was requested by the mother of the drowned sailor to make further inquiries of her son.

Shortly before Mr. Wood arrived in this city, late in October, the body of a foreigner was found by Chinese fishermen near Woosung. It was taken ashore and buried and the tipao of the district notified the local Defense Commissioner. When the incident came to the attention of the United States authorities an investigation was ordered on the chance that the body might be that of the lost Navy man. It was exhumed, but was not identified and so was reburied.

FOLLOWS UP CLEW

Fastening upon this clew when he reached Shanghai Mr. Wood sent to the office of Robertson's enlistment, in Los Angeles, for a complete description. This arrived a few days ago and Mr. Wood got into touch with the local United States Naval authorities.

Yesterday morning a party composed of Dr. Frederick Ceres, U.S.N., Dr. F. Ulen, United States Navy dentist, Dr. Frank Baldwin and Mr. Wood went to Woosung and had the body of the unidentified man once more disinterred. The doctors made a thorough examination and conclusively established the identity of the man as that of the missing seaman. The identification was chiefly based upon the record of his teeth, taken at the time of his enlistment, but further in corroboration was the fact that he was dressed in the regulation United States Navy second-class seaman's work clothes, a point which was evidently overlooked at the previous examination.

WILL BE SENT HOME

The body was brought to Shanghai and has been placed in the Bubbling Well Cemetery Mortuary pending the completion of arrangements by Dr. Ceres for sending it home. The Naval authorities are arranging to accord the dead seaman the customary Navy honors and it is expected that the casket will be on its way to Riverside within a short time.

Previous to the identification the Shanghai Rotary Club had started a fund to remove the body from Woosung to the Bubbling Well Cemetery and give it burial there.

Chataldja Mutiny Report Is Denied

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 1.—It was recently reported from Constantinople that a mutiny occurred among General Wrangel's Cossacks encamped at Chataldja, and that French Senegalese troops who quelled the mutiny lost several killed and wounded.

Reuter now learns from an authoritative source that the report is without foundation. It is true that some disorder occurred on the 12th inst., but it was immediately stopped without bloodshed.

(Reuter's Service)

Philadelphia, Jan. 8 (by mail).—Miss Catherine M. Cox, who has just returned from a year's relief work in Europe for the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) said that more than 600,000 under-nourished German children were receiving one hot meal a day from the American Friends Committee, and it was intended to increase this number to a million during the winter. The Prussian children are most grateful, she added.

Moslem Rampage Halted By Quake

Tumbling Of Buildings Taken As Sign Of Heavenly Disapproval

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, February 1.—A message from Kansu states that the Moslem outbreak which was threatened there has not materialised as a widespread movement, undoubtedly owing to the earthquake, in which the Mohammedans saw a warning from Heaven. The death of Shen Jen and other Mohammedan religious leaders through the collapse of caves, houses and city walls seems effectively to have stopped the plan for offering resistance to the Central Government.

Over five hundred Moslem leaders are said to have been buried in the ruins of the place in which they were holding a religious conference. As a result of this catastrophe the Mohammedans have changed their truculent attitude toward the Central Government.

Britons To Repair Russian Engines

Big Contract Contingent Upon Ratification Of Trade Agreement

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 1.—The well-known engineering firm of Sir W. G. Armstrong, Whitworth and Co. has entered into an agreement with the Russian trade delegation for the repair of practically the whole of Russia's locomotives. Commencement on this work depends, however, on the ratification of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement.

Unquestionably, it is a very big contract, which should be the means of employing hundreds of men.

U.S. Starts Making Much Helium Gas At New Texas Plant

Product To Be Shipped For Use Of Balloons In Army And Navy

(Reuter's Service)

Fort Worth, Texas, January 7 (by mail).—Finishing touches are being put on the Federal Government's $5,000,000 helium gas plant six miles north of Fort Worth, and operations on a large scale are expected to begin soon.

Established in 1917 at a cost of $800,000, the plant has been an experiment station thus far. But the worth of the gas and its economy for use by the navy and army balloons have been proved to the satisfaction of military experts.

The gas is non-inflammable and non-combustible. Its value was discovered before the war, but the process of extracting it was then too costly to make the gas practical. Government agents have since perfected an economical method.

The gas is shipped from Fort Worth to Galveston and New Orleans in cylinders and loaded there aboard Navy department vessels for transportation to balloon fields.

PROFITEERS IN OIL ASSAILED, LEAGUE MAY TAKE ACTION

British Trade Board Calls Increases Unjustified And Puts Blame On Greed

UNITED EFFORT NEEDED

Economic Section Of Nations' Body Might Furnish Relief, Is Opinion Of Committee

(Reuter's Service)

London, February 1.—The Board of Trade in its second report on the oil industry attacks the oil trusts. The present cost of production of fuel oil does not justify the present prices, and the producers are exploiting the consumers owing to the large demand, is the verdict of the committee which has investigated the subject, and it contends that there is no possible justification for the recent increase of sevenpence a gallon in the price of petrol.

The Committee, while saying that it dislikes Government control, declares that there are only two ways of overcoming the difficulties, firstly, by combined action through the economic section of the League of Nations, and secondly, by the production of substitutes and the adoption of alternative sources of power to an extent that will lower prices. The soundest policy, in their opinion, is to make the fullest use of coal and its products.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, January 29 (delayed).—Speaking at a dinner given by the British Chamber of Commerce of Paris, its president, Sir Edward Burclay, declared that France and Britain could not exist without one another. Once the present exchange obstacle was removed, business between the two nations would be again as brisk as it was before the war.

Tokio, Jan. (by mail).—Her Majesty the Empress recently sent messengers to the leading pauper schools in Tokio to inspect the condition of children attending night-schools.

Upon receipt of detailed reports, Her Majesty has now honored the Principals and teachers of the institutions with a substantial donation in recognition of their service in the cause of poor people.

U.S. Fisheries Show Slump Since War

Production And Consumption Considerably Less, Bureau Explains

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 9 (by mail).—Production and consumption of fishery products, stimulated and encouraged by governmental and other agencies as a war measure, have shown a decided slump, according to the Bureau of Fisheries.

A large under-consumption of fish, advancing prices of labor and materials and a curtailment in the export, the report says, have placed fisherman in a serious situation.

As the majority of the fishermen are small individual producers, who have devoted their lives to their calling, exposed to unusual hardships and dangers, with little or no training for a change of livelihood, the Bureau of Fisheries says it is important that some measure of relief be afforded them. It is endeavoring to render the industry such aid as it can with the exceedingly impaired funds at its disposal.

'Dare-Devil' Cop Startles Broadway

Captain Charles N. Fitzgerald, aerialist and dare-devil who is in command of New York's air police performed daring and thrilling stunts on top of one of New York's new skyscrapers that fairly raised the hair of persons watching from Broadway, hundreds of feet below. Dancing and walking out on narrow steel girders, hanging by his hands, standing on his head and other thrilling stunts were nonchalantly gone through by Captain Fitzgerald "just to keep in trim," he said. His daring even made the most hardened ironworkers, at work on the building, gasp.

Over 1,000 Greet Elman At First Concert Here

World's Greatest Violinist Plays To Enthusiastic Audience At Town Hall; Concert Saturday

BY R. B. HURRY

THE names of perhaps three violinists have become household words. Mischa Elman's is one of these. The phonograph has made his name familiar to thousands who have never seen or heard him. His style has, to some extent, been impressed upon the minds of people everywhere.

Accordingly the Town Hall was filled on the occasion of his first appearance here last night.

Some had heard him play—in my own case this was some fifteen years ago. Elman's power over his hearers when he first leapt into fame was recognised as independent of his extreme youth at the time; his period of growth was passed under Professor Auer and not under the eyes of the public and critics.

At first sight last night Elman struck me as being surprisingly old, but his boyishness and the familiar leonine head returned during the playing. He has the poise of a fencer now, too,—with his bow held as part of himself.

With Elman there are no strings and apparently no positions but one voice capable of nuance, depth and intensity.

With the exception of Vivaldi's concerto, he made an ordinary-looking program a series of tense emotional pictures.

In Lalo's Symphonie Espagnol, I first heard the real Elman. Vieniavsky's "Faust" Fantasia was a revelation of clear playing, but the audience, very willing to be impressed, was genuinely touched by the familiar "Ave Maria" of Schubert and Chopin's Nocturne in E flat, played with mute. Sarasate's "Gipsy Songs" (which were played by Mischa Welsbrod on Saturday) concluded the program.

Pieces played on recalls were "Chanson Louis XIII et Pavane" (Couperin, arranged by Kreisler) and the Prize Song from "Die Meistersinger," the last a superb example of Elman's emotional style.

The Vivaldi concertos are no doubt in excellent early classical style, since John Sebastian Bach thought fit to mature and round off many of them, adding melodic parts of his own, either for strings, organ, or clavier and strings. As they stand they are hardly acceptable to modern audiences and the continua cadences at every two or four bars become a perfect nuisance.

It was amusing to see how determined a part of the audience was to enjoy even the first movement played by Elman.

It would have been more interesting, and I am sure as popular to have had the Glazounov or Tchaikovsky Concerto, or why not a violin sonata? There are plenty of them.

Mr. Arthur Locsser, Elman's colleague, is a brilliantly-equipped pianist.

Two little complaints as to the management: None of the lettered rows of seats were easy to find, and, as if the game of seat-finding were designed to keep us occupied, the artist and pianist turned up twenty minutes after the advertised time of the recital and commenced some six or seven minutes later.

Ichang Residents Object To New Tax

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, February 1.—The inhabitants of Ichang have memorialised the Legations, complaining of the oppression of the military officials who are endeavoring to exact a levy from the townspeople in order to meet foreign demands for an indemnity. They ask the support of the Legations in an effort to bring about the withdrawal of the troops, stating that the townspeople are ready to raise a civilian police force to replace the soldiers.

CONFERENCE EXPERTS WILL HOLD SESSION WITHGERMANS

Near Eastern Question To Be Taken Up At London On 21st

WORK REVIEWED

Foreign Exchange And Stock Markets Fail To Show Effects

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 31.—In accordance with the instructions of the Supreme Council, the experts constituting the Brussels Conference have been called upon to re-assemble in Brussels on February 7, together with the German delegates. The Allied experts are now again getting into touch with each other, and have formulated a program for the conclusion of their labors.

NOTIFIES GERMANS

Paris, Jan. 30 (delayed).—M. Briand, as President of the Inter-Allied Conference, has sent the head of the German delegation a letter informing him of the decisions of the Conference regarding disarmament.

The letter says that the Allies, while granting Germany new delays, hope that she realises the serious consequences which a refusal to carry out her obligations would entail.

EXCHANGES NOT AFFECTED

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 1.—City financiers point out that the foreign exchange and stock markets have not reacted as favorably as was expected upon the Inter-Allied agreement as regards German reparations. A certain amount of scepticism prevails as to whether the terms will be enforced, and fears are expressed that Germany will pour out thousands of millions of fresh notes in order further to depreciate the mark. There was a further decline of 20 points yesterday in marks, and the exchange rate is now 241 marks to the pound sterling.

ALLIES SATISFIED

Paris, Jan. 31.—Despite some initial difficulties, and certain sharp discussions, the Paris Conference, according to one of its most far-sighted members, reached a conclusion which was "to every-one's satisfaction." In all the problems that it dealt with, the Conference either came to a conclusive settlement or to a decision conducing thereto.

A Conference will assemble in London on Friday, the 21st instant, to consider the Near Eastern question. A proposal has already been adopted in principle for the relief of Austria. The States bordering on Soviet Russia have either been recognised or informed of the conditions on which the Allies are prepared to give them recognition.

The disarmament question was settled on the lines recommended by Marshal Foch in his report. The reparations problem no longer exists, since an absolutely precise contract has been drawn up, and Germany is obliged either to accept it, or to submit without the least mitigation to the will of the Allies as conveyed through the Reparations Commission.

RIGOROUS PENALTIES

The execution of the obligations thus imposed on Germany is guaranteed by the threat of rigorous penalties, clearly defined. These are very considerable results, and mark a stage of capital importance towards the establishment of final peace in the world. For these results France is greatly indebted to M. Briand.

At the forthcoming Conference in London on February 28, to which the Germans have been summoned, the latter will be called on to decide whether on the basis of the just and reasonable terms now laid down it will be possible to resume normal relations with them.

The German press, so far from appreciating the moderation of the Allies, is giving vent to vehement imprecations, but the Allied Notes which have been drafted will show that the Entente has no desire to crush the Germans or to reduce them to starvation, since that would be inimical to the recovery of Germany, on which the reparations scheme is based.

GERMANS HOSTILE

New York, Jan. 31.—The German newspapers adopt a hostile attitude towards the decisions of the Supreme Council, says a Berlin despatch. The Berliner Tageblatt characterises the Conference as "a madhouse rather than an assembly of reasonable men, and says: "All Germany can do is to refuse to pay, and let the Allies come and take their booty."

The Vossische Zeitung declares: "The proposal is insane and the amount cannot be paid. It means that Germany's financial and economic life will be in England's hands for 42 years."

VIEWS IN PARIS

Paris, January 30 (delayed).—The French press, in welcoming the results of the Inter-Allied Conference, is especially pleased with the frustration of the German endeavors to divide the Allies. The Entente Cordiale is stronger than ever, the papers affirm.

VIVIANI IS HEARD

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 31.—Commenting on the Inter-Allied Conference, M. Viviani, the ex-Premier, writing in the Petit Journal, says; "An arrangement has been reached complementary to that of the Boulogne Conference, and it is both more clear and more definite.

"The result of the Conference has been to consolidate the Entente with Great Britain and also at the same time the friendship between France and Belgium. M. Briand, who has in these difficult days shown remarkable adroitness and strength, has rendered a great service to his country, to the Alliance and to Europe."

ONE PAPER DUBIOUS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 1.—The generally optimistic attitude of the British press with reference to the agreement reached by the Inter-Allied Conference as regards reparations is not shared by the Westminster Gazette, whose Paris correspondent says that Mr. Lloyd George was stung into plain speaking by the sentimental French view of the case.

The correspondent asserts, as the result of his private conversations with British official personages, that they know the sum obtainable from Germany will be relatively low. The correspondent's opinion is that the system now proposed is largely camouflage, and that in a few years, when Germany will probably be behind in her payments and the Allies will have become alarmed at the inflow of German goods, a very different compromise will be proposed.

As regards the export tax, the correspondent contends that it will be impossible to control German exports through neutral countries, or to America.

"Brown Sugar"

Tonight will witness the first performance of "Brown Sugar," a pleasant, witty, and tender comedy, presented by Edgar Warwick's new comedy company, direct from London at the Lyceum. Those who are fortunate enough to secure the few remaining seats will participate with London play-goers in witnessing simultaneously with them the most popular success of recent years.

"Brown Sugar" is at the moment in the middle of the most phenomenal success that London has ever witnessed.

Practically every seat is booked for tonight's performance and the few remaining vacancies will no doubt go quickly.

There are only two performances of "Brown Sugar," tonight and tomorrow, and on Friday the St. James' Theater success will hold the boards. Booking for the first five plays of the engagement is at Moutrie's

Ratepayers At Chefoo Hold Their Annual Parliament

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, Jan. 27.—Chefoo's annul Parliament met yesterday afternoon in the Hall of the Club Annex. There was a representative attendance of foreign-subscribers though it looked as though there were not as many Chinese present as in former years.

Proceedings opened by Mr. Sugden's being voted to the Chair and Miss Edna Smith being elected honorary secretary of the meeting. The first item on the agenda was the passing of last year's minutes. This business was quickly put through after Mr. Lupton, American Vice Consul had seconded the proposal. In proposing the passing of the report the Chairman touched upon the finances and remarked that the dues upon the German properties had not been paid. Also the receipts from the ricsha taxes were not as high as they ought to have been, considering the influx of ricsha coolies into the Port in the summer, when the American fleet was in the harbor.

Apparently these men who refuse to carry residents and who exploit the sailors do not pay the ricsha dues and the injustice of this was commented upon. The treatment of the public by the local Electric Light Company was dwelt upon in scathing terms, the Chairman characterising the light as bad, the Company as rotten and the Chinese in charge of it, as being most incapable. But the language was not too strong, for the Company is said to be exploiting the public and feeling is very strong on the subject.

At the conclusion of Mr. Sugden's remarks, a Chinese ratepayer present announced that he had the company's authority for the statement that they were purchasing new boilers and that once these were installed the current would be up to the standard but the rate payers realised that the trouble lay in the company's habit of putting up more lights than their plant could adequately supply. Others endorsed the Chairman's remarks about the poor quality of the light and the unjust treatment meted out to its customers by the company, after which Mr. Russel Brown seconded the proposal that the report should be adopted and the meeting carried the resolution unanimously.

The question of the opening up of bars, in view of the probable visit of the American fleet drew forth an interesting discussion. First Mr. Sugden reminded the meeting of what took place last summer. The sailors ashore were under the influence of drink, the Bund was at times impassable, while Chinese and foreign ladies had complained of the behavior of the men. It was realised that the sailors had nowhere to go and the places of attraction were the bars. Thus the question arose as to what was to happen this coming summer. Should the American Admiral be approached or should the community write and lay the whole matter before the Secretary of the American Navy? Mr. Railton rose and told what he and those who had tried to purchase an open space as a playing field, had done thus far.

After forming a committee on which was the Tao Yuen, that official and two other influential Chinese members of the newly formed body, had secretly purchased parts of the proposed space and had put the purchase price up from $50 a mow to $200 a mow. The meeting was rightly indignant on hearing this, and a proposal was at once made that the matter should be reported to higher Chinese authorities. Eventually the matter was left in abeyance and then Mr. Railton announced that they were negotiating for the purchase of another space, which if they succeeded in securing it, would be turned into a Recreation ground for the sailors.

Finally the subject of the Bars was disposed of, by the passing of a resolution calling upon the incoming committee to do their utmost to limit and curtail the activities of these undesirable places.

Sanitation then came under consideration. The Committee last year had approached a firm on the subject of the creek drainage, and removal of the awful stench arising from the waste water coming from the filatures. The scheme put forward would cost $5,000 and an upkeep of $500 a year. Mr. Dowglass was sceptical as to whether the upkeep would not be far higher and Mr. Rickard considered the money could be better spent on other things. Finally the meeting decided to leave the matter in the hands of the incoming committee.

The result of the ballot was next given out. Messrs. Emery, Cappelin, Rickard, Smith, Irvin and Matsunaga were elected to represent the foreign ratepayers for the coming year. Mr. Russell Brown proposed a vote of thanks to the outgoing committee and Mr. Lea seconded it. The meeting passed the resolution unanimously.

Sinn Feiner Must Die, Court Decides

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 1.—In the King's Bench Division in Dublin, the Chief Justice delivered a unanimous judgment, declaring that the Court had no power to give further stay of execution in regard to the sentence of death passed by court martial on a Cork man named Murphy, on a charge of participation in an ambush.

As already cabled, the High Court previously granted a stay of execution till January 26. In delivering judgment yesterday, the Chief Justice expressed the opinion that the prisoner should be given an opportunity of making any further application in accordance with the Army regulations.

TWO NEW PACIFIC CABLES PLANNED

Will Touch Aleutian Islands, Japan And China; The Shortest Route

Seattle, Jan. 8.—Announcement made in December before the Senate committee by President Newcomb Carlton of the Western Union Telegraph and Cable Company that his idea of extensions of the Pacific cable system is for two cables from Seattle, one via the Aleutian Islands direct to Japan, and the other to China brings official approval to a route long advocated by the Pacific Northwest section and encouraged in the Orient.

Significance is attached to this announcement in view of the fact that the Western Union Company on Dec. 7 installed its direct New York-Seattle telegraph service, with the announcement that the equipment can be expanded to care for the increase which will come with a cable connection.

Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington has advised the Seattle Chamber of Commerce that he will endeavor to secure early legislation preliminary to the laying of at least one additional cable across the Pacific, and said that if private campanies did not show a disposition to do the work that he would recommend government construction and operation. He estimated that the cable would cost approximately $6,000 a mile.

A cable touching on the Aleutian Island would follow the Great Circle of navigation now used by ships coming from the Orient to Seattle, the shortest route across the Pacific. The present cable from San Francisco to Yokohama is 6993 nautical miles long while a cable laid from Seattle by the route suggested by President Carlton would be 4254 nautical miles.

The present cable from San Francisco to Manila is 7141 nautical miles long, while a cable from Seattle to Manila via Yokohama would be 6011 nautical miles. A relay station on one of the Aleutian Islands, half way between Seattle and Japan, will make the first two spans about 2127 knots each.

Of the total foreign commerce of the Pacific Coast, the Washington District, Seattle chief port, handled 53 percent both in 1918 and 1919. This in spite of the handicap of poorer trans-Pacific communication than other Pacific districts. With roundabout communication the Washington District transacted nearly one-seventeenth of the total foreign commerce of the United States. Obviously then, Seattle, and surrounding territory of the Northwest claim qualifications as the proper terminal for a trans-Pacific cable from a commercial aspect.

Former Shanghai Consul To Act For Japs In Consortium

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, January 29.—Mr. Odagiri, who has recently arrived in Peking to act as resident representative of the Japanese Group of the International Banking Consortium, is occupying the house on Kao Pei Hutung which, since the formation of the Old Consortium, has been the residence of the Japanese bankers' representative.

Mr. Odagiri is exceedingly well acquainted with Chinese conditions, having spent most of his career in China, where he was formerly in the consular service, having served in 1912 as Consul-General in Shanghai. He spent some six years in Peking as financial representative of the Japanese loan group, and three years ago returned to Japan, during which time he has been active in financial circles in that country.

He stands high in the council of the Japanese government, having been a financial representative on the Japanese delegation to the Paris Peace Conference.

More Workers Needed By Famine Relief Organisation

International Committee Has 102 On Job, But Others Are Wanted—Big Drive This Month

While renewing its appeal for famine relief workers in the West Chihli area, the personnel or recruiting committee of the United International Famine Relief committee has submitted a report that it has now in the field or assigned to tasks there, a total of 102 workers. It has also recruited a reserve of 41 workers who will be assigned as soon as they are available.

The early release of many volunteers who enlisted for limited periods, makes necessary a constant recruiting movement. Men and women are wanted for periods of four to six weeks and the work ranges from supervision of a refuge for girls by a competent married couple to the management of a stone quarry.

WORKERS ARE NEEDED

As the work becomes more acute, the need for additional supervision increases. Both Chinese and foreign helpers have responded to the calls sent out by Philip A. Swartz, chairman of the committee on personnel. Those offering their services should communicate with Mr. Swartz. If they are sent into the field they will be provided with transportation if they give ample time to the committee to arrange this matter.

Some organisations have been of special help in furnishing volunteers as is instanced by the Union Bible Institute, Drum Tower West, which has adjourned and released its personnel for relief work. Ten of the members have gone to Shunteru, two are going to Lai Shui and eleven to Hantan in the Tamingfu area.

PEKING DRIVE COMMITTEE

The Peking special committee for the National Famine drive to be held from February 20-28 has in its membership aside from Mr. Sun Pao-ch'i, the chairman, the following members:

Dr. W. W. Yen, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Chou Tzu-ch'i, Minister of Finance; Chang Chih-t'an, Minister of the Interior; Yen Kung-cho, Minister of Communications; Fang Yuen-lien, Minister of Education; Wang Nai-pin, Minister of Agriculture and Commerce; Lou Tseng-hsiang, Government Famine Relief Bureau; Liang Shih-I, Wang Ta-hsieh, Feng Keng-kuang, President Bank of China; Admiral Tsai Ting-kan, the Customs Service; Yun Pao-hui, Government Famine Relief Bureau; Yuan Pao-san, President Chamber of Commerce; Chou Tso-min, Vice-President Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Hsung Hsi-ling, P. K. C. Tyau, Board of Foreign Affairs; Rev. Liu Fang, Methodist Church; L. C. Chang, Salt Gabelle; Mrs. Ting Mo-han, Sir Reginald Gamble, M. Picard-Destelan, Mrs. Charles R. Crane, Mrs. Richardson, S. Fukusawa and R. R. Gailey.

Secretaries: Wang Chang-tso, Tien Chang-yen, Miss L. K. Haas and John L. Childe.

It was voted that all cities now having international famine relief committees be considered as promoting centers for the national drive and that immediate organisation of other international committees will be undertaken in all other large centers.

PRESIDENT TO LEAD

His Excellency, President Hsu Shih-chang, is to be invited to act as honorary president of the drive and all large cities joining the campaign will be asked to elect four persons to serve on the Honorary Board of Patrons.

It was also voted to ask the Cabinet that each of its boards and departments request co-operation from metropolitan and provincial officials under their jurisdiction and that the various legations ask similar aid from their respective consul and chambers of commerce. The legations will also be asked to wire their colonial administrations in the Far East asking co-operation and the Chinese Board of Foreign Affairs will receive a similar request to wire its consuls and Chinese chambers of commerce in the same area.

ALL ORGANISATIONS AID

It is planned to request the Government Board of Education to invite all local educational boards to join the movement and to ask the Board of Agriculture to enlist the services of the several chambers of commerce in China. The special Peking committee will send word to local educational boards and commerce bodies.

The general understanding is that all charitable and Christian organisations regardless of their affiliations or denomination will unite with the one object in mind, that of raising a fund that will carry the menaced population through to the end.

ASK MME. HSU FOR MEDAL

A request for the awarding of a medal to the donor of the largest amount of money towards the North China Famine Relief Fund among the women of China has been addressed to Madame Hsu, wife of the President by the local Chinese Women's Famine Relief Association.

The request was made following the weekly meeting of the committee yesterday when many other important decisions were made. The committee acknowledged yesterday the receipt of $5,000 donated by Madame Hsu and of $1,200 from various other donors and accepted the proceeds of a recent theatrical performance amounting to $1,016.

It was further decided to hold a three-day fete at the Y.M.C.A. beginning on February 21. The program will consist of a bazaar, concerts and exhibitions by the Chin Woo Athletic Association and by several local girl schools.

Mrs. H. H. Kung will be in charge of the program.

SILK MISSION IS ENTERTAINED AT SEATTLE

The Chinese silk delegation to the International Silk Exposition arrived in Seattle from Victoria on January 6.

The visitors were met at Victoria by representatives of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

They were given a dinner at the China Club of Seattle on January 7. The visitors were guests of the Chamber at a luncheon where they met members of the Chamber and representatives of the larger department stores of the city. In the evening an informal dinner was given at the Rainier Club.

Ting Ju-ling, chairman of the party, and C. Y. Chiu, secretary, were honor guests at the luncheon of the members council of the Chamber of Commerce in the Masonic Club. Ting spoke of his gratification of Seattle's interest in his country. Secretary Chiu, in an enthusiastic talk, said that Seattle was considered China's gateway, and suggested that present friendly relations be more firmly cemented by groups of business men of both nations visiting both countries.

At the dinner given the mission at the Rainier Club speakers urged closer relations, through commercial units, between China and America.

R. S. Boyns, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, said Seattle can repay the visit by sending a substantial delegation to the Orient with the inauguration of the American-owned passenger service in April.

The delegation left for the East on January 8.

COTTON SPINNING LECTURE SUBJECT

Mr. Samuel Ward Speaks Before Engineering Society Of China

At the meeting of the Engineering Society of China, held in the Hall of the Royal Asiatic Society yesterday, a paper was read on the subject of "Cotton Spinning in China" by Mr. Samuel Ward.

Mr. Ward emphasised the comparative backwardness of China in this important industry pointing to the fact that although this country has 25 percent of the population of the world it has only one percent of its spinning spindles. He also drew attention to several interesting features which characterised the development of cotton spinning in England and America and pointed out how the efficiency of spinning mills in China might be raised and the production increased but that it was obligatory for mill owners to introduce into their mills every possible contrivance known to relieve operators of certain essential duties now left to their discretion with unsatisfactory results. In other words, that the work of the operator should, as far as possible, be confined to those duties for which no mechanical device has yet been invented.

HUMIDIFICATION NEGLECTED

Mr. Ward said that humidification of cotton spinning mills had been almost entirely neglected in China, in spite of the fact that considerable advantage is being derived from its introduction in other countries. He reminded his hearers that cotton yarn spun in an atmosphere of the required temperature; containing a suitable amount of humidity is far stronger, more solid, consistent and regular than when the contrary conditions obtain.

Mr. Ward stated that cotton spinning was not necessarily governed by "cast iron" conditions but that within reasonable limits many of the factors are sufficiently elastic to permit of variations to meet a variety of conditions, and consequently it was of first class importance that those responsible for the management of spinning mills should be men of good technical as well as sound practical training.

DIFFICULTIES IN EAST

It was admitted that the spinning of cotton yarn in the East presents special difficulties, but, as the experience of other and more successful countries is available, on all points having a common basis, it followed that attention need only be directed towards eliminating or minimising the problems peculiar to the country, in order to secure the best results.

Mr. Ward stated that although this industry had been in operation in China for 30 years it had to be admitted that the production of the average mill was not less than 30 percent below the possible on most counts of yarn, while on other counts this might be increased by 50 percent.

He said that the cotton spinning industry had done much to enlarge the co-operate life of the Chinese; it had created some, and stimulated other industries, for the common benefit; that it would in all probability exercise a powerful influence upon the future development of this vast country and consequently there did not appear to be any legitimate reason why all possible improvement should not be introduced.

Therefore, an opportunity was offered to those sufficiently interested to show that in this matter the Chinese are capable of developing a standard of efficiency not far removed from that of other nationals, if only provision is made to counteract the disabilities of the country and its climate.

There was a representative attendance and a useful discussion followed the delivery of the paper.

Barbers At Nanchang Strike, Beat Bosses

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, Jan. 28.—Because of a wage dispute all of the apprentice barbers of Nanchang, numbering 750, went on strike yesterday. The difficulty arose because the proprietors paid wages in a depreciated paper money currency. The apprentices demanded an increase because of the rising price of rice and other foods. A meeting was called in the barbers guild hall and in the course of a hot debate nine proprietors were severely beaten. The demands of the apprentices were met today and accordingly heads are being shaved as usual.

No Date Set As Yet For Chinese Advisors To Begin Their Duties

In response to the inquiry made by three Chinese ratepayers, the Chinese Ratepayers' Association yesterday stated that the Chinese Advisory Committee of the Municipal Council was unable as yet to assume its official duties because the Council has not yet set a date for the members to commence their functioning.

The message went on to say that the names of the committee were communicated to the Council through the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce on November 23, 1920. The association on December 4 again made inquiries and as a result the Secretary of the Council wrote that the matter was under consideration by the Council and a formal reply would be given in due course.

YALE IS LOOKING FOR A PRESIDENT

Corporation Committee Will Transmit Suggestions And Nominations

With the football season of 1921 philosophically "written off" as a debit to Experience and a credit to Fighting Spirit, Yale alumni are turning their attention to the question of a new president for the university.

A special committee of the Yale Corporation headed by Samuel H. Fisher of New York for some months has been receiving and tabulating the suggestions and "nominations" made by graduates of the university, and after the first of the year will transmit them to the full corporation, with whom the final choice lies.

It is understood that the decision will be made and announced early enough to allow the president elect to have the benefit of three or four months' co-operation with President Arthur T. Hadley before the latter's resignation takes effect at the university commencement in June.

"Suggestions have poured in upon us," a prominent member of the corporation explained. "I think more than sixty names were submitted by individuals and groups of alumni. Some of the suggestions were critical and aimed against some supposed candidate; others presented the names of men prominent in public life but in no way connected with education or with Yale—such distinguished citizens as Herbert Hoover or Gov. Calvin Coolidge. But the men most often named were all Yale graduates. The two most frequently discussed have been Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, secretary of the university, and the Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin of New York. Only slightly less numerous have been the recommendations of such men as Henry S. Graves, head of the United States Forest Service; President George E. Vincent of the Rockefeller Foundation, Dean Herbert E. Hawkes of Columbia, and Dean Thomas W. Swan of the Yale Law School.

"We want a proved administrator, of course; and it is probably equally essential that the new president be a man of experience in educational lines. A large number of alumni favor the choice of some one closely in touch with the new blood and new ideas of the West; others advocate an engineer or scientist. The great majority insist on a Yale graduate."

All the above-mentioned men have taught or lectured at Yale, another leading graduate pointed out. Dr. Stokes has been secretary of the university for 21 years, assuming that office at the ago of 25, three years after his graduation. Dr. Coffin has been university preacher for a decade and has a great following among the undergraduates.

PHILLIPS WINS FROM STORMES; JOINS BIG FOUR

Enters Semi-finalists Along With Porter, Bush And Prince By Victory

BEATS STORMES EASILY

George Gray Will Be Seen In Action Friday At Marine Engineers Institute

R. P. Phillips joined J. M. Prince, E. D. Bush and C. W. Porter, the present champion, last night when he defeated G. M. Stormes, 750 to 598, in the second round of the amateur billiard championship tournament. The four semi-finalists start their fight for the top rung this week and Porter will probably play Prince tomorrow night at the Union Club. The game between Phillips has not yet been arranged.

Last night's game, which was staged at the Marine Engineers Institute, drew a small crowd and the match was far from joyous to behold. But Phillips played remarkable billiards at times and when it is remembered that he was discharged from the hospital only last Saturday his performance is even more remarkable.

It is true that his average was but 5.8 and the 750 points consumed some 175 minutes but Phillips made breaks of 40, 44 and 50 and these, with Stormes' 50, helped matters considerably.

The first 300 points were woefully slow, Phillips was leading at the 300 mark by 75 points and he had an average of but four. Yet he pulled up his average in the remaining 400 although it was plain he was not well. Phillips is capable of better billiards.

GRAY TO PLAY

George Gray, the Australian wonder, will play his first game here Friday night at the Marine Engineers Institute. His opponent will probably be J. E. Grant. Gray will give a lecture and an exhibition during and after the match.

The Lusitano Club has arranged to have George Gray play at the Club some night next week. He will play an exhibition game of 600 up and will demonstrate strokes. Tickets of admission may be obtained at three dollars from Mr. F. A. Alvares, Fearon, Daniel and Company.

NUXATED IRON

A Shanghai resident tells us, unrequested, the results he obtained after a month's course of Nuxated Iron.

"After losing weight steadily for the greater part of 1920 my Doctor sent me to the Victoria Nursing Home, and after a thorough examination told me my lung was affected. This naturally alarmed me greatly as I am a married man and have one child. I took many different medicines prescribed by my Doctor, but all with no result. At my wife's suggestion I then began to take Nuxated Iron, as I was in such a state of mental worry, that I thought a course would do my nerves good. After the first week of taking Nuxated Iron I began to feel that I was eating better and could read a story without my attention wandering. As time went on, my weight increased, and my friends began to notice the difference in me. I am thoroughly convinced that Nuxated Iron is a wonderful nerve and blood builder, and am so pleased that instead of scoffing at Nuxated Iron, as I did when my wife first brought them home, I am recommending them to all my friends who are sick."

The above is what one of Shanghai's most popular men told us entirely unsolicited. He does not want us to publish his name, but expressed his wilingness to allow us to refer anyone to him.

The pivots of the compound pendulum, rolling in their curved recess, cause the pendulum to describe a cycloidal arc. 9. It cannot get out of beat. 10. There are no keys to lose. 11. There are no springs to break. 12. The design of the escapement reduces friction to the minimum. 13. The clock itself is its own driving power. 14. It shows at a glance when it needs winding. 15. The driving force is constant. 16. The design lends itself to new varieties of artistic treatment. 17. It requires no oil. 18. American Cotton Market Showing Renewed Activity

Public Responds To Lower Prices And In Many Places Mills Again Are Opening

(Reuter's Service)

New York, January 7 (by mail). Evidences of increased activity in cotton goods houses has at last been noted; not in any large volume as yet, but sufficient to attract the attention of traders in the speculative market for raw cotton, and to increase the confidence of those who have consistently been expecting better things after the turn of the year.

The naming of new and surprisingly low prices on ginghams, chambrays and tickings by the Amoskeag Company—a leading house in the trade, whose prices had been awaited for some time as a guide for others—undoubtedly stimulated business materially in the closing days of the year.

It was revealed that the public is willing to buy at a price, but is considering that price not in the light of declines from excessively inflated war-time values, but in the light of pre-war prices. When retailers come fully to understand this attitude there will doubtless be a return of buying on a healthy scale.

Already many textiles, both cotton and wool, are close to pre-war levels, if not actually below, although it is true that the quality has suffered, and much of the stuff is made up for a cheap trade, which in time will doubtless react on the retailer; for if the public has learned one lesson as a result of war hardships, it is that of buying with greater discrimination than it ever did before.

The sales of print cloths at Fall River for the week reached 60,000 pieces—an encouraging advance from recent dullness, but still far under the average for this season.

In many quarters mills have resumed operations, either part or full time, and on nearly all sides, a note of optimism is being sounded. It is recognised however, that the foundation-stone of all betterment must be an increased demand from the consumer.

Both grain and cotton farmers have laid much stress on the benefits to be derived from the War Finance Corporation, which was forced through Congress over the President's veto, yet the best minds in the Street can see little or no help to the farming element from this measure, and believe its operations will only retard the period of recovery from inflation. It permits no loans to farmers, and merely increases the possibilities of exports under restrictions and safeguards so stringent that only the most favored interests will be able to work under its provisions.

Summed up at the close of the week, it would seem as if there was a distinctly better note to the cotton trade, with spots being held more firmly in the South Atlantics, mills starting up, the goods trade more active and sentiment generally more optimistic.

On the other hand there is a considerable element that feel that we are still not yet "out of the woods;" that present improvement may prove but temporary, and that the time has not yet arrived for the long-expected and long-hoped for bull movement in commodities; but that the latter will probably come when it is seen that farmers are determined drastically to reduce acreage, no matter how tempting the price may be.

Local Missionaries Greet Bishop Birney

Bishop and Mrs. Lauress J. Birney and their daughter, Dorothy, were formally welcomed to Shanghai by the missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church stationed in this city at a reception held at the home of Miss Elizabeth M. Strow, 116 Dixwell Road, on Monday evening. At the same time Dr. and Mrs. Luther Freeman were welcomed. Before coming to Shanghai as pastor of the Community Church, Dr. Freeman was pastor of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church in Pittsburg.

Dr. F. D. Gamewell, executive secretary of the China Christian Educational Association, presided. In introducing Bishop Birney, Dr. Gamewell recalled incidents connected with other bishops who have been leaders of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this country during the 40 years of his experience. Bishop and Mrs. Birney, Dr. and Mrs. Freeman, and several others made short speeches.

Dr. Gamewell, who lived in Peking for 18 years, where he designed the defences of the legations during the seige of 1900, compared Shanghai with New York. "New York sets the pace for America," he declared. "If you put on a certain kind of a hat in New York, they will be putting on that kind of a hat all over America within six months. If you put on a new style of clothes in New York, that style will be worn all over America a few months later. And Shanghai has the same influence on China. All the powers that most quickly effect China go out from this city.

Inquest Held Over Body Of Suicide

An inquest was held yesterday over the body of R. S. Rangelo, Goanese cook from the B. I. steamer Takada who committed suicide by slashing his throat with a knife as the ship was coming into Shanghai on January 26. A verdict of death from self-inflicted wounds while of unsound mind was returned.

Rangelo died at the General Hospital Monday noon. Evidence was given at the inquest by Mr. Davison, third officer of the Takada, who said that deceased had been found in his cabin with a bloodstained knife and a razor nearby. He had been suffering from an attack of acute bronchitis for two days previous to the incident. Dr. Marshall stated that he had no doubt that it was a case of suicide. Mr. H. V. Wilkinson, of the ship's agents, said they were willing to defray burial expenses. The deceased was refused recognition by both British and Portuguese authorities.

Siberian Expedition Completes Its Work

Means Of Opening Traffic By Way Of Lena River Being Worked Out

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, January 25.—It is reported that Mr. Matisen's expedition of scientists, hydrologists and technicians, sent in the summer of 1919 by order of the Bureau on the Study of Siberia to survey the estuary of the Lena River, has returned to Irkutsk after having made a successful survey of the Arctic Sea shores.

The investigation of the great waterways connecting Siberia with the outside world by the Lena and the Arctic Sea was the chief task of the expedition. Despite many obstacles and the hard conditions in the unexplored shores of the frozen ocean, the expedition has successfully accomplished its task, collected abundant materials and obtained great results which will greatly contribute to the realisation in the near future of the plan of opening an eastern northern sea route for carrying on trade with the Yakutsk district and Siberia by way of the Lena River.

Rich deposits of coal are reported to have been discovered in the bay of Tiksa. Layers of coal appear on the surface about two miles from the sea-side. It is believed that there are coal deposits in the very neighborhood of the sea. If this case, the importance of the norther sea route will be greatly increased.

American Woman's Club

A special business meeting of the American Woman's Club will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Carlton Cafe. All members are urged to be present.

The work of the Children's Slave Refuge, the history of the organisation, and the traffic in children in China was described by Miss M. T. Henderson, superintendent of the Refuge, at the meeting of the American Woman's Club held yesterday afternoon at the Carlton Cafe.

The Refuge opened in 1901 when one little girl was received and placed in the care of a Bible woman living in a rented house on Avenue Road. In 1912 the Home was enlarged and 78 children were placed in the Refuge on Brenan Road. Soon 156 children were enrolled.

TRAIN THE CHILDREN

"The children are trained in every department of housework," said Miss Henderson. "All the cooking, washing, shoemaking and dressmaking is done by the girls. What becomes of them? is asked. Some go to schools and hospitals—but our chief end is marriage. The pastors from various country places come to us about some young man in the congregation. If the investigation proves satisfactory the young couple are married. We have had more than 30 girls married in the Home."

Reports from various committees and officers of the club were given. Mrs. George B. Fryer reported that the committee in charge of the American Woman's Club Annual would give more than $1,200 to the club as proceeds from the Annual.

The meeting yesterday was in charge of the Social Service Department of which Mrs. James MacDonell is chairman.

MOTHER'S DEPARTMENT

The Mother's Department of the American Woman's Club will meet this morning at the Carlton Cafe at 10:30 o'clock when Mrs. A. P. Parker will speak on "Social Problems of the High School Age," and Mrs. H. E. Davis will review Dr. G. S. Hall's book, "Youth, Its Education, Regimen and Hygiene."

Is Burned To Death In Early Morning Fire

A 55-year-old Cantonese named Chen Chia-ho was burned to death in a fire which did not extensively damage the building at 63 Tsungming Road yesterday morning. The body was not identified until long after it was discovered. At first it was thought that the body was that of a woman. Neighbors, however, later established the identity.

The blaze started when a boy, while using kerosine to light a fire on the ground floor near the foot of the staircase upset a lamp and set fire to the stairs.

The brigade received a late call and when the Hongkew division responded, the house was a mass of flames while the two adjoining premises were burning. No. 64 Tsungming Road, which was not insured, was occupied by an insurance broker. The damage was confined to the upper floor.

INQUEST OVER CONSTABLE

An inquest was held yesterday over the body of the Chinese police constable killed on the Bund Monday afternoon when he was struck by a motor car being driven by Lieutenant G. A. Harrison of the British gunboat Kinsha. Other constables who saw the accident testified that the deceased was looking away from the car when it struck him and that the car was moving slowly. Lieut. Harrison said that he had just come ashore and entered the car, which was occupied by Miss Hoerter, and had put the car into first and second gear. He was stooping over, putting it into third gear and looking slightly to the West when something made him look up and he saw a Chinese about a foot off the right hand mudguard. The man appeared to double over the mudguard and fall backward. The spot where the man was struck was about 30 feet from the place where the car started. Lieut. Harrison said he would give compensation to the widow of the constable.

A verdict was given to the effect that deceased died as a result of a collision between himself and the motor car.

Many Are Iniured In Nanchang Fire

(China Press Corrrespondence)

Nanchang, January 28.—Broken bones, dislocated joints and blistered bodies are the result of a ten thousand dollar fire night before last outside the city wall on River street. The shops where the fire started were small and poorly constructed and once the fire got underway it was a difficult job to extinguish it.

A number of the injured persons were later taken to the Methodist Hospital where they are now receiving foreign attention.

SWATOW APPEAL CASE COMES UP IN BRITISH COURT

The British Full Court, consisting of Judge Skinner Turner and Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, heard an appeal in a case in which judgment was given last October. Mr. H. Lipson Ward and Mr. Langley Smith appeared for defendants and appellants and Mr. Reader Harris for plaintiffs and respondents.

At the hearing at which judgment was given, an accounting taken by the British Consul at Swatow, Mr. A. G. Major, and two Chinese Assessors, was adopted and his award as to the amount due was accepted and judgment entered. The sum was Tls. 14,981 with interest, due on a transaction in sugar, the parties being both Chinese and British subjects. The matter of appeal was brought before the Full Court, Mr. Ward said, in order to give the Court, if appellant's contention was right, opportunity of correcting error, and, otherwise, of giving more extensive reasons that it did not agree with the contention, so that the matter could afterward be taken to the Privy Council, if so decided.

The claim, Mr. Ward said, was in respect of a deal to the extent of 21,000 piculs of sugar valued at $205,150 consigned to a bank of which defendant was a partner. It was to be sold by the bank on joint account for plaintiffs and the bank. An accounting was later asked and granted, but the Consul at Swatow went a little beyond an accounting and found an amount due from one party to the other. Consul held that there was not a motion for judgment before the Court at the time it was given as Mr. Langley Smith had objected and applied that the accounts be sent back on the ground that books previously considered desirable were now available, on the Court's refusal he had treated that day as a return day.

The principal contention of the appellants was based upon the assumption that the Court had gone wrong in confusing the account, which was between plaintiff and a native bank, as being an account between plaintiff and defendant. In the Mixed Court, it was contended, it was common knowledge that partners in Chinese hongs were only liable in respect of debts of the partnership in the proportion of the amount of their share in the partnership. Council introduced an affidavit by Mr. Blackburn, British Assessor, in this connection.

Judgment was reserved, after further argument.

Nine Are Drowned In Capsising Of NanchangRiceBoat

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, Jan. 28.—Yesterday afternoon nine men lost their lives when a boat heavily laden with rice capsised in the Kan River in front of the city. The boat with 33 farmers was on its way to the city to market the rice and when half way across the stream the men were warned that if they proceeded into the city the soldiers would seize their wheel-barrows.

They immediately turned back but in their haste two sails became entangled. The loaded boat turned turtle with the result that all the rice and nine lives were lost. Thus far six of the bodies have been recovered.

FOUR-WHEEL DRIVE

For pulling trailers or on difficult roads the four-wheel drive principle is far superior to rear drive. When a draft animal gets in bad going it uses all four hoofs in trying to extricate itself—it has four chances. So has the four-wheel drive truck with locking differentials.

REFINED TAR ON ROADS

In Canada refined tar has gradually taken the place of crude tar, it having been found that pavements built using the unrefined product are uneven in their wearing qualities on account of the variations in the quality and density of the tar used.

Reparation And Disarmament---From The French Standpoint

WITH the mark again depreciating—241 to the pound sterling, or a bit over one and one-half cents gold each—and Germany threatening to quit and "let the Allies come and take their booty," a calm statement of the considerations which animated France in the stand which she took in the Inter-Allied Conference on the vital questions of reparation and disarmament, becomes of paramount interest. This for the special reason that the Allies have adopted the French point of view and have committed themselves to the French policy vis-a-vis Germany.

What exactly is this French policy? What are the intentions of France with regard to Germany, Europe, America, the League of Nations and world peace? All these questions are answered in an article prepared by M. Raymond Poincare, who was President of France throughout the war. Writing under date of December 23, only a short time before the meeting of the historic Inter-Allied Conference now concluded, he limned the French position as follows:

BY MR. RAYMOND POINCARE

(The Ex-President of France)

Let me ask how the immediate entrance of Germany into the League of Nations would put an end to the present troubled state of affairs.

In the first place, as Germany has herself declared, the existing statutes of the League are already atrophied. Exactly what modifications will the United States ask for after the installation of Mr. Harding? We do not yet know. The explanations that have so far been given to this subject by the new President of the great American Republic lead us to foresee a modification of Article 10, as well as some other changes, but we have no exact information on the matter.

The only thing that is certain is that we shall have to choose between the abstention of America and a transformation of the League.

American abstention would be one of the most vexatious of solutions. It cannot be allowed that peace should divide the free nations that war brought together. It will therefore be very desirable that an agreement shall be come to between the present members of the League and the United States for a revision of its statutes.

But it would not be without peril that Germany should already have been admitted to membership of the League when the time came for the necessary negotiations for the modification of the statutes to be undertaken. She is certainly not qualified to insinuate herself into the pourparlers between the nations who were yesterday allies or associates for the purpose of fighting against her spirit of domination. Let us at least begin by conferring among ourselves.

On the other hand, Germany has up to now given no proof of any kind to France that she is sincerely disposed to carry out the Treaty of Peace. Even supposing that she had given proof of her good will in this respect, the fact would in any case still remain that so far the amount that is due to France for reparations has not yet (Dec. 23) been fixed.

Now it is necessary that this question should be settled (if not by reason of the procedure laid down in the Treaty, then at least according to that which has just been determined by the Anglo-French agreement) before Germany crosses the threshold of the League of Nations. If it were otherwise Germany would be at liberty to bring the question before the League, for the express purpose of overthrowing our agreements.

Germany will enter the League; nothing could be better. But let us first try to consolidate the League, with the aid of America and to come to an amicable agreement between ourselves as to the execution of the Treaty.

What else are we reproached with?

Our policy with regard to Russia?

I believe that in this respect our two countries, to speak plainly, may reproach each other for their lack of agreement and for their isolated initiatives. I have no hesitation, for my own part, in repeating to England that which I have said to France.

I regret that the Government of the Republic recognised General Wrangel, and above all that it did so without having first come to an agreement on the subject with Great Britain. It is assuredly not from sympathy with Bolshevism that the British Government has begun negotiations with the Soviets. It admires the methods of the Moscow Government no more than does France.

If we have done our best to support Poland, it has not only been through fidelity towards a nation which in its days of captivity, has always remained dear to France, but also through respect for the Treaty of Versailles. It is therefore impossible for England or America, on this score again, to judge our action with severity.

Events in Russia, and in Greece moreover, have so profoundly modified the aspect of the situation in the east of Europe that the Allies once more have an opportunity to arrange a common policy. Let us hope that they will not allow this opportunity to pass and that they will be able to come to an agreement on one single policy.

It is useless to conceal the fact that the demands for the revision of the treaty which have been formulated in England, coincidently with ceaselessly renewed demands for revision on the part of Germany, have surprised and saddened the French Republic. Had these demands been made before the ratification of the treaty we should have had no reason to be astonished: but put forward or again put forward after ratification, they have appeared in France to be much less explicable. From our point of view the treaty, once ratified and brought into operation binds all the parties that have signed it.

We feel this all the more strongly from the fact that neither in the French press nor (with much greater reason) in the Chambers has any complaint been made against the articles of the treaty from which England derives profit; they have been looked upon by us as unquestionable.

So far as the stipulations that interest France are concerned, I am convinced that England has no more wish than ourselves to take away the legitimate benefit we should derive from them. In order to bring together the two widely separated points of view, which it is indispensable should be done, it will suffice perhaps if both England and France would clearly lay down certain general principles.

These principles appear to me to be as follows:

1—France no more dreams of ruining Germany than England does. She has ruined her neither politically nor ethnically. She does not intend to ruin her economically. When the amount due from Germany for reparations shall have been fixed France is ready to grant her all the facilities and all the time required for payment. She is perfectly well aware that the ruin of Germany would not be only an evil for Germany, but for all the other nations. Moreover, France wishes no evil even to Germany herself.

2—France wants to live. She is frightfully in debt. Ten of her departments are in a state of devastation; she has hundreds of thousands of widows and orphans and mutilated men. Reparations have been promised to her. These reparations are the essential condition of her renaissance. The ruin of France would not only be the ruin of France alone; it would be a misfortune not only for the other nations, whose wealth is more or less in solidarity with hers; it would be not only a universal disaster. It would be an abominable iniquity, which would be the shame of history and the remorse of humanity. France knows to the depths of her being that neither England nor America will ever lend themselves to such an odious denial of justice.

3—France will never attack anybody; but she refuses to remain under the threat of attack. The League of Nations has not been furnished with the means of action that France asked that it should be armed with. Apart from the Franco-Belgian Convention, France has not been given, down to the present, any written guarantee of alliance. She is therefore compelled to show herself absolutely uncompromising in regard to the disarmament of Germany. Germany is now surrendering her artillery matrial a little more regularly, but she is still leaving a part of her population in possession of rifles and machine guns, and she has not yet disbanded a large number of formations which, under civilian labels, in reality constitute military forces. Subterfuges of this kind are not calculated to reassure us.

We set forth, therefore, two irreducible exigencies—that Germany shall repair the evil she has done to us, and that she shall disarm. We only want, in other terms, peace and our right.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

The G.O.M., Mr. William Gladstone, has been referred to as the most moving speaker ever heard in the House of Commons, but it seems that he must descend from his pedestal in favor of a present M. P.

A short while ago, when this gentleman arose to address the House on the question of Ireland, replying to a speech by Sir Hamar Greenwood, some members were seen to slip from their seats for "a little breather" outside.

"No one can deny" commented another member, watching the departing M. P's, "that Mr. X. moves the House more than any other person in it."

THE BISHOP

Here is a story concerning the Bishop of Bath and Wells. He had been addressing a group of candidates for ordination, and had impressed upon them the importance of studying very carefully the "Analogy" of Bishop Butler.

They took his words to heart and promised that they would, but as the last candidate, a very nervous young man, was about to leave, the Bishop thought that he would make assurance doubly sure in his case.

"Don't forget the Butler," he said genially, as he showed the man out. "Indeed, no, my Lord," replied the nervous young man. "I've given him half a crown."

LORD CURZON

When Lord Curzon was an undergraduate at Balliol, a good deal of attention was paid to Scripture, and he relates an amusing experience of a certain master who decided to strike terror into the scholars by conducting a preliminary examination in person.

"Mr. Jones," he asked, "who was carried up to heaven in a burning, fiery chariot?"

"Elijah, sir," replied Mr. Jones.

"Oh, such dreadful ignorance!" cried the master, "Mr. Robinson, who was carried up to heaven in a burning, fiery chariot?"

"Elijah, sir."

"Oh dear; this is shocking: Mr. Brown, who was carried up to heaven in a burning, fiery charlot?"

"Elijah, sir."

"Dear me! Just ring the bell and ask for Moon" (his butler.) "Moon, who was carried up to heaven in a burning, fiery chariot?"

"Elijah, sir."

"Well" observed the master, after a pause, "perhaps it was Elijah, after all."

RUDYARD KIPLING

Rudyard Kipling is an enthusiast on old books, and one day he was burrowing in a second-hand bookshop when he came across a volume which interested him.

"Is this good?" he asked the shopman.

The shopman took the volume, examined it and observed—

"I haven't read it."

"What!" exclaimed Kipling "You don't read your own books—the books that you sell?"

The shopman shook his head, and put one to Kipling.

"If you were a druggist" he asked, "would you take all your drugs?"

Probably neither Rudyard Kipling nor the shopman had ever run across a certain enterprising clothier of a provincial town. This clothier actually wore his own clothes. In his window was a big placard, bearing these words:

YOU CANNOT JUDGE THE EFFECT OF CLOTHES ON WAX MODELS. STEP INSIDE AND SEE THE REAL THING!

He himself was the "real thing," and he was a sight to behold. Every day he wore a different suit, and every article on him, including boots, gloves, hat and handkerchief was marked in plain figures.

But one day he received a shock. An old lady entered the shop, nodded her head approvingly and said: "I'll take you as you stand. Don't trouble about brown paper."

BRANSBY WILLIAMS

Bransby Williams, the popular entertainer, is still going strong. He is best known for his impersonations of Dickens characters, but he does not confine himself to these, and is one of the most versatile actors in England.

Here is a delightful example of his humor. It occurs in a skit on a melodrama, in which the villain is having the "big scene" with the heroine.

"In the first act" exclaims Bransby, alias the villain, "I threw you under a train. In the second act I cast you into the river. In the third, I seized you, tied you to a chair, and placed a bomb under your feet.—Tell me, why do you fear me?"

SIR HERBERT TREE

Here is an excellent and true story about Sir Herbert. He was accosted one day by a stranger in the Haymarket.

"Aren't you Beerbohm Tree?" asked the stranger.

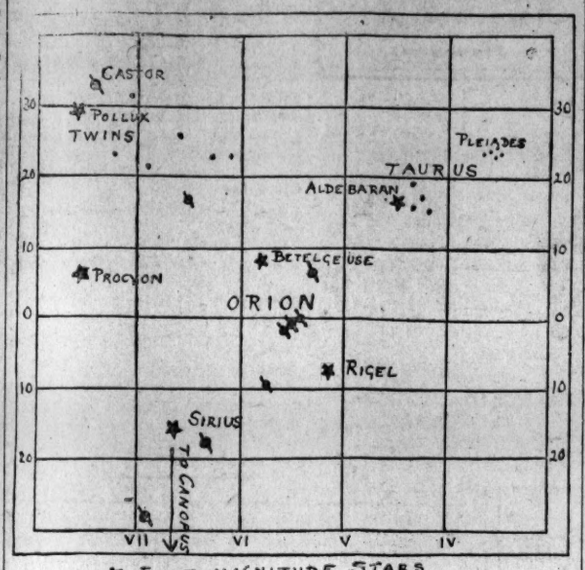
"No," replied Tree, anxious to hide his light under a bushel.

"I'm sorry. I thought you were. You look uncommonly like him."

"I assure you," insisted Tree "you are mistaken."

"Well, I certainly did think you looked like him," said the stranger, "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to insult you."

Map Of February Skies



(Note: This map was inadvertently omitted from yesterday's paper. It should have appeared with St. Arga Zer's article on February stars.)

During the early part of this month at 8 p.m. Orion as represented on this map is almost straight south. The figures on the sides of the map express degrees of celestial latitude and correspond always to earthly latitude, so that if you stand on the equator the "belt of Orion" will pass directly overhead. Instead of latitude we use the term Declination, both north and south or plus and minus.

The figures at the bottom are hours and correspond to terrestial longitude. Each hour the stars move one space from left to right on the map, that is, from east to west in the sky. But since the earth rotates no point in the sky can be said to have the same longitude as a corresponding position on the earth.

A Close-Up

By CYRIL B. EGAN

His face
So close to hers
The Vision almost blurs,
He folds her in his fond embrace—
Enfolds her
And holds her . . .

She looks
(As in the books)
Into his eyes,
With sweet surprise,
With rapt expectant wonder . . .
O Thunder!
Is the numbskull going to miss a
Chance like this to up and kiss her?
Give the lady a loving buss,
You dilatory, backward cuss!—
But he never will:

Ah, Bitter Pill!
His the doom of Tantalus—
Though never to attain,
Forever to remain
In maddening proximity
Of Love in Lace and Dimity.
Oh, hateful fate,
To be the Lover—
Or the Loverine—
Upon the cover
Of a magazine!

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper (Registered Trade Mark)

is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS

above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the lassitude and worries often incidental to her sex. Every woman may get nearer to Health and Happiness by using

The Laugh Of A Child

BY DAMON RUNYON

The sweetest music in all the world is the laugh of a child. The harps of heaven can be no more melodious.

No, this is not a "tear yanker." It is merely an exposition of a few thoughts that I had while lying in bed yesterday morning.

Next to our house is a Neighborhood House, where the children of the community are gathered by philanthropic women and taught, and amused.

The sound of their voices pours through my windows when they are playing in the yard at recess. It is a happy awakening for me.

I lie there and reflect that in a world of insincerity, here is a small corner genuinely sincere. If a crowd of men and women were out there in that yard laughing, I know that I would detect here and there in the voices notes that wouldn't ring true.

When a child laughs it means it. When a man or woman laughs they may be doing it as a matter of form, or from politeness. A child laughs from its heart. A man or woman only too often laughs from the roof of the mouth.

I sat in a cafe only the other night and watched a crowd surrounding a table presided over by a man who has a great deal of money but who is without exception the dumbest, grossest, fattest-witted man I have ever seen.

He was doing all the talking, and the people around him were laughing at everything he said. Fortunately for him he didn't have an audience of children, because they would have walked away from him in sincere disgust in about three minutes.

The richest man in creation can make a child laugh no more heartily or sincerely, than you or I yet the richest man can produce a palate chuckle on a poor joke from men and women where you or I would merely draw lifted brows.

A child laughs only when it is happy. Men and women sometimes laugh when they are most unhappy. Sometimes they laugh to keep from crying. The laugh of a child is the tinkle of celestial song, but the laugh of a man or woman that comes up out of a well of tears is the harsh clang of the devil's own guttural tones.

Not long ago I was in the richly furnished apartment of a couple who seem to have everything that money can buy, wonderful appointments, rugs, tapestries, pictures and the like and whose pride is their music room.

The woman, and a fine woman she is, too, was showing me this room, gorgeous beyond belief, and she asked:

"What sort of music do you prefer?"

"Well," I said, "the only music we have over at our house is the laughter of the children next door, and that's my favorite music."

She looked at me a moment, and I saw her eyes slowly filling with glistening, watery beads. I suddenly realised that I had been thoughtless. There are no children in her beautiful home. I immediately changed the subject.

I thought of this woman as I lay in bed yesterday morning, and the sound of the children's voices came through my open windows. An old bachelor friend of mine walked right into the midst of my reflections.

"You going to sleep all day?" he demanded.

"I wasn't sleeping," I denied. "I was just lying here listening to the children. Isn't it wonderful to hear the happy little voices? What is as musical as the laugh of a child?"

"What's that you say?" he asked, bending forward.

"I say what is as musical as the laugh of a child," I repeated. "I love to lie here in the morning and listen to those little folks next door."

He walked over to the windows and closed them with a fierce bang.

"Now," he said, "tell me what you're saying. I couldn't hear a word on account of the racket of those darn kids!"

The Need Of Fresh Air

BY BRICE BELDEN, M. D.

Tuberculosis is always with us and discussions of the methods of fighting it are always timely. There is a widespread campaign against it, and we all know about the great centers established for its prevention and cure.

However, the importance of education in regard to the heading off of the plague at its source cannot be minimised, especially since the great campaign so rapidly advancing has not yet become comprehensive enough to handle the whole of the problem.

This means that conditions in the home and other indoor places, such as the school and factory, must be understood and watched everywhere, indoor life having been discovered to be the chief cause of the dread disease.

That the lack of fresh air is the most important factor in the spread of tuberculosis is proven by observation of those people and animals that live in the open air, and also by the results of plenty of fresh air as a cure for those who have already contracted the disease.

Among the American Indians tuberculosis was unknown until they began to live in houses, and we know that this change of habit has caused their race to become almost extinct through the ravages of this disease.

Another observation along this same line is that of monkeys in some of the zoos in this country. It has been discovered that many of the monkeys suffering from tuberculosis contracted in winter quarters can be saved by being put out in the fresh air in the coldest part of the Winter. In one case a very sick monkey improved, although exposed to the bitterest weather, and the disease was checked in a satisfactory manner.

The best form of proof as to the influence of fresh air or lack of fresh air upon the problem of the spread of tuberculosis is in the results obtained from the placing of tuberculous children in open air schools.

This observation naturally leads to the idea of instituting open air schools in order to prevent tuberculosis as well as to cure it after the damage has been done. Perhaps it will take many years before we come to have the combination school house and playground in the open air which made the boys of Sparta perfect specimens of health and intellect unequalled anywhere in our modern civilisation.

However, we can at least understand the importance of fresh air and the menace of indoor life and keep our children out of doors as much as possible.

Proper Food For The Child

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

One of the largest cities in the United States asked me to lend my assistance in combating the appalling amount of malnutrition which the Department of Health doctors found among its children. And, strange to say, the malnutrition was by no means limited to the children of poor folk. Some of the children came of well-to-do families. In only a small minority of cases was lack of money the cause. Then what is the matter?"

I invited the mothers of one hundred of these children to a little informal gathering. At first they let me do most of the talking, let me tell them that a diet of white bread, potatoes and meat and practically nothing else might cause malnutrition. They allowed me to become so enthusiastic that I finally gave out printed slips on the suggested diet to combat malnutrition.

The best food workers believe that a diet of milk—lots of it—cereals and cereal foods, fruits and vegetables, fats and foods from the egg-fish, meat-nut group and a very little sugar at the end of a meal, other conditions being favorable, is the ideal diet for the proper growth and development of a child.

Up to this point the women had been shy. But now a courageous soul broke silence.

"It is all very well to say the children should eat this and that and that," she said, pointing to the slip with her toil-worn finger, "but my boy—the one the doctor says is undernourished, won't eat cereal and he won't drink milk and he don't like eggs and hates vegetables and I have to beg with him to eat an egg. And when he won't eat these things what can I do?"

Suppose your child will not take milk. Perhaps if you make it into cocoa he will take it. Or, perhaps, he will take it if it is made into a chocolate pudding or a custard pudding. You might put a pinch of baking soda into the tomato soup and then combine it with equal parts of milk and serve it as cream of tomato soup.

If you look through a cook-book you will find scores of dishes calling for milk. While pies are not usually suggested for children, nevertheless in cocoanut custard pie there is so little crust and so much milk and egg, that we might occasionally put it into an older child's diet.

Weds Step-Daughter, Fulfils Wife's Wish

Binghamton Woman Made Request On Deathbed And Pair Obeyed

Binghamton, N. Y. Dec. 8.—Robert C. Hayes, 35 years old, of this city, married his stepdaughter, Anna Mae Merritt, within five days after his wife's death as the result of her dying request when she gave her daughter to be her husband's wife on condition that he marry her at once.

Anna Mae Merritt, who is 20 years old, was married three years ago to a soldier named Moore. A year later a child was born, and following a separation a divorce was granted to the young wife. The girl resumed her maiden name and with her child took up her home with her mother and stepfather.

The mother, when informed she was stricken with a fatal disease, called her husband to her bedside and told him her one great worry was what would become of her daughter and her grandson. She asked him to grant her last request and marry her daughter. He did so. Mrs. Hayes died last Wednesday. Monday the husband and his stepdaughter were married.
